Remember that when the stomach nerves fail or weaken, Dyspepsia or Indigestion must always follow. But strengthen these same weak inside nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and then see how quickly health will again return. Weak Heart and Kidney nerves can also be strengthened with the Restorative, where heart pains, palpitation, or kidney weakness is found. Don't drug the stomach or stimulate the heart or kidneys. That is wrong. Go to the cause of these ailments. Strengthen these weak inside nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and get well. A simple single test will surely tell. Louisa Drug Company.

NO USE TO DIE.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Wm. Artrip, C. & O. engineer, who was held for manslaughter because his engine killed an aged man named Banks at Prestonsburg, has been discharged by the court.

Jerry A. Hughes died at Ashland a few days ago at the age of 43 years. His eldest son, age eighteen, died only two weeks previous of pneumonia.

Jeff Newberry, the well known wholesale shoe dealer of the Newberry Shoe Company, was removed from his home on Fifth avenue yesterday to the Huntington Hospital where he underwent an operation today for a serious affliction that has bothered him for some time. Mr. Newberry's many friends in the city will regret to hear of his illness. Huntington Herald.

Mrs. Mary Jane Martin, wife of Dr. J. W. Martin, died at her home 223 East Winchester Avenue, last night, after a brief illness of pneumonia. Mrs. Martin had been an invalid for several years, and during all that time, had been cared for as tenderly by her devoted family as though she were a child.

The deceased was born in Floyd county, February 27, 1885. She was the daughter of Gen. Daniel Hager, this being one of the most prominent families in the Big Sandy valley. She was united in marriage to Dr. J. W. Martin, at Paintsville, in April, 1887.

George W. Calvin, the well known merchant, farmer and stock dealer, of Cannonsburg, has just returned from Chicago, where he purchased 11 car loads of cattle, which are being brought to Boyd county, to be grazed on the lands of our farmers. Two or three car loads have already arrived and have been driven to the country, and the others will be here within a day or so. Mr. Calvin is engaging this season more extensively in the live stock business than ever before, and has splendid prospects of realizing handsomely from his enterprise. He is one of the leading, bustling citizens of our county—Cynthiana Tribune.

Frankfort, Ky., March 12.—Frank Horn, Deputy United States Marshal who killed Irvin Short, an alleged moonshiner, in Knott county in June 1905, was acquitted last week in the Federal Court here. The defense, fearing that the prosecution had failed to make a strong case, took only the testimony of the defendant. Horn said that he went to Short's place to arrest him for moonshining and Short started to run to the house. He said that he believed that Short was running to the house to get arms to kill him and fired, intending only to cripple Short, but the wound proved fatal.

Thirty-two prisoners, mostly boys, were sentenced to thirty days in jail and fined $100 for retailing liquor without license in Eastern Kentucky. Mrs. Nettie Blaser, of Magoffin county, the only woman "whiner" at this court, was dismissed and permitted to return to her habitation. The U. S. Engineers who prepared the reports and maps relative to the proposed lock and dam system in the Ohio river, forgot to put Ironton on the map showing the territory commercially benefited by the reliable navigation of the Ohio. This is rather surprising, since Ironton has the heaviest tonnage of any city on the Ohio river between Wheeling and Cincinnati, and is supposed to be located at or near the site of one of the proposed locks and dams. Ashland and Cynthiana are also missing, and staid old Gallipolis also gets the go-by; but the thriving metropolis of Greenup and Vancouver, with its teeming population of several hundred thousand, is given a place. Huntington and Portsmouth are also represented. But then, what is commercial importance or a city's reputation for persistent aid in helping along the Go-to-Cairo movement, compared with the fact that Greenup is the home of a Congressman? It is a very little thing, perhaps, but very little extra effort would have been required to place on this map showing "territory commercially benefited," the most thickly populated area west of Wheeling—Ironton, Ashland, Cynthiana and their environs—as is done in the lock plan in the same report—Ironton Irontonian.

Mary Johnson and Nannie Burke were candidates for the City, Pike post office, and Representative. Lawyer, &c., the tenth District, the apportioning power was at a loss to decide to which he would give the 10th. In looking over the case Mr. Langley reached the conclusion that everything should be done for sake of the deserving young ladies. The idea struck me that in order to do this a new post office should be established. The Post master General agreed with him and a new office, Long Fork, has been established, to which miss Burke will be appointed, while Miss Johnson will hand out letters at Etty, Ky.

Rev. John H. Williams died at Ironton Wednesday after a brief illness. He was 86 years old.

Frankfort, Ky.—Ben Carey sent to the penitentiary from Boyd county, to serve seven years for manslaughter, worked a clever ruse to make his escape, but enjoyed but a brief spell of liberty, being captured by Guards Pythian and Mudd within a very short time after he had gotten away from duration ville.

Carey had laid his plans well for his break for freedom. When he with several other convicts was taken out side of the prison walls to the rear stockade to get some packages from the outside shoe factory, he lost no time in seizing the first available opportunity to get away. It is said he managed to elude the keen eye of the guard a short time, and when missed shortly afterward could not be accounted for. A quick search of the premises and surrounding county, is said to have disclosed the fact that a man with a white shirt on, was going over the F. C. trestle far up on the Normal Hill. The man was making tracks towards Georgetown, and the officers were practically certain that the white-shirted man was Carey.

Telephones were quickly put to work and scouting parties sent out. Believing that he would continue on towards the forks of Elkhorn and Sycamore, Guards Mudd and Pythian got in a buggy and hurried toward that point. When near that point they learned that a man had been seen trudging ahead, in the pike, wearing a peculiar kind of trousers and without a coat. They quickly overhauled the man described, and found that he was Carey. The convict threw up his hands when two guns were leveled at him and agreed to go back to prison.

With a view of concealing the fact that he was a convict, Carey had most ingeniously, considering the materials at hand, cut a pair of trousers out of his blanket. He admitted that he had laid his striped trousers down on the blanket and with a small knife cut out the pattern and then with such needles and thread as he had, sewed them up and doffed them under his stripes, to await the first opportunity for escape. This came and he slipped off his striped breeches and coat and made off, wearing only the blanket trousers. He hid them under a near-by lumber pile.

Carey was paroled out of prison some time ago, but violated his provisions by getting drunk and was brought back last October.

ALL RUN DOWN.
Miss Della Steele, who had completely lost her health, found relief from Peru on at once.
Read What She Says.

MISS DELLA STEELE, 78 Highwood St., Appleville, Wis., writes: "For several years I was in a run-down condition, and I could neither eat nor sleep well, nor could I enjoy my music, and could not sleep at night. I had heavy, dark circles about the eyes. My friends were much alarmed. I was advised to give Peruva a trial, and to my joy I began to improve with the first bottle. After taking six bottles I felt completely cured. I cannot say too much for Peruva as a medicine for women in a run-down condition."

Peruva on Bed Wonders.
